

Jeff Barron
U.S. Energy Information Administration

Jeff Barron is an Industry Economist with the U.S. Energy Information Administration's Office of Energy Markets and Financial Analysis. He serves as an analyst on petroleum and petroleum products, focusing on the linkages between physical and financial markets. He is a writer of the monthly markets review for EIA's Short-Term Energy Outlook as well as contributor to the STEO price forecast. In addition to STEO, he is a regular contributor to EIA's This Week in Petroleum and Today in Energy articles, writing analyses of quarterly and annual financial performances of global and U.S. oil companies. Jeff graduated from Syracuse University with M.A.s in Economics and International Relations.