

Michael Bujold is a trial attorney for the United States Department of Justice, where he serves in the Executive Office for United States Trustees, Office of the General Counsel. His practice focuses on bankruptcy proceedings commenced under chapter 11 of the bankruptcy code. Among other duties, he provides guidance and assistance on complex chapter 11 issues to both Executive Office senior leadership and to United States Trustee field offices, assists the Office of the General Counsel in its implementation of policy initiatives, and develops guidance and training materials to assist United States Trustee field offices in fulfilling their statutory responsibilities. He has been recognized with an Attorney General's Award for Distinguished Service.

Before joining the Office of the General Counsel in 2014, he served as a trial attorney in the United States Trustee's Riverside field office and as a law clerk for the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina. He has lectured on bankruptcy compensation, chapter 11 creditor committees, and USTP case oversight. He is an active member of the American Bankruptcy Institute. He received his J.D. and his B.A. from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.
